Subject: Preparedness for Winter Storm

In preparation for the expected impact from the current winter storm, ISE is taking the necessary precautionary steps that will allow us to have a normal market open on Tuesday, January 27, 2015.

Our FX Market on ISE will open for trading at 7:30 am and our Equity and Index Products on ISE and ISE Gemini at 9:30 am ET as per our regular market hours.

ISE has been actively monitoring the advance of the winter storm and the potential impact on New York City and the surrounding region. We will continue to participate in industry preparedness calls and our Business Continuity team is in communication with the appropriate New York City agencies.

We will continue to evaluate the situation and will circulate any additional information or status updates as they become available. We will also post market status notices on our website, www.ise.com.
